sharp teeth. The professor, by carrying the oar forward with the movement of the fish, at the same time raising it from the water, landed the huge fellow into the boat. He weighed 13% pounds. The fish on the hook only weighed three pounds, but showed signs of battle, being bitten in several places. Upon opening him we found, as is often the case, a fish of smaller size in his stomach. This one showed signs of life, and was opened. We then discovered a pretty little gold chatelaine watch, and were surprised that the time agreed with our watches and that it was running.

More than pleased with our fishing expedition, we returned to the Adirondack hotel, and informed Landlord George A. McCoy of our luck, at the same time showing the watch. In less than two minutes all the guests about the house were in the office, and among the number a pretty young lady from Albany, who said the watch was a token of friendship which she had prized very highly. When on the lake in the early part of the day it had fallen into the water, and she supposed was lost. It is needless to say she was overjoyed at its recovery.—Albany Journal.

Only Man Ever Killed by a Meteor. To the writer's certain knowledge there is but one case on record where a human being has been killed by an aerolite or fall of meteoric stone. tality mentioned occurred in Whetstone township, Crawford county, O., in 1875. and is recorded in the Bucyrus Journal as follows:

As David Misenthaler, the famous 2:05 A. M. DAILY, MIXED TRAIN FOR tockman, of Whetstone township, was stockman, of Whetstone township, was driving his cows to the barn about daylight this morning he was struck by an aerolite and instantly killed. It appears as if the stone had come down from a direction a little west of south, striking the man just under or on the right shoulder, passing obliquely through him from the right shoulder to just under the left bin brown to lef above the left hip, burying the greater portion of his body under itself in the soft earth. The stone is about the size of a wooden water bucket, and appears to be composed of pyrites of iron.-Phil adelphia Press.

DIET AND HEALTH.

A Man Could Live Hardly Longer Than

a Week on Asparagus Alone. Especial interest attaches to Dr. Salisbury's food experiments. The half dozen sturdy fellows whom he put on a diet of baked beans and coffee exclusively, all showed symptoms of locomotor ataxia, or progressive paralysis, on the tenth day, and by the sixteenth day not one of them could walk straight without support; all had chronic diarrhea, heart palpitation and oppressed breathing.

Four hearty, well men were put on catmenl porridge—seasoned with butter, pepper and salt-with a pint of coffee containing sugar and milk at each meal. Constipation, flatulence, headache and dizziness were afflicting them all on the eighth day. In two days more these conditions had become violent; exertion produced heart palpitation, and they were full of wandering pains, with prickling in feet and hands.

painful-with neuralgia induced in three cases-until from the twenty-third to the twenty-fifth day, when diarrhea set in, ord is full of such entries as "Eyes wild, hearing impaired, head confused, memory poor, legs and feet numb, quite deaf and listless, heart palpitates and very irregular," up to the thirtieth day, when it was deemed imprudent and unsafe to carry the experiments further, and in four days more, by a meat diet and hot water, the men were restored to normal health. It may be well to observe here that in all cases men experimented upon were as thoroughly and quickly cured of their abnormal conditions by those means. Violent chronic diarrhea, such as often prevails in armies and is known as camp diarrhea," was produced in three hearty, strong men by feeding them exclusively upon army biscuit in from nineteen to twenty-one days-a spell of constipation preceding-and microscopic examination proved that they were literally filled with yeast germs. Each had marked symptoms of locomotor ataxia and partly lost the use of his lower limbs Bread, rice, wheaten grits, hominy sago, tapioca and potatoes were each fed to four or six men at a time for periods of from forty to forty-five days before serious diseases and symptoms were produced. Green peas and string beans ranked next in point of alimentary qualities. Green corn, turnips, beets and squash quickly produced unpleasant and grave derangements, but of all vegetables asparagus was found most injurious when lived upon alone. Seven days is about as long as it would be safe to subsist on this plant, owing to the effect upon the kidneys.

People who live exclusively Good Stock and Light Rigs, Rapid and Pleasant Trips. on vegetable food, as the Hindoos, are enabled to do so by inherited organic tendencies. Their stomachs are of little or no use to them. The pyloric valve being permanently paralyzed remains open, so that vegetable matter passes directly into the proper field of its digestion.-Ohio State Journal.

Curious Fate of a Shark. The steamship Kansas City, of the Ocean Steamship company, which arrived here on Wednesday night from Savannah, caused the death of a five foot shovel nosed shark in a somewhat unusual manner. Off Hatteras Shoals, steaming along at the rate of seventeen miles an hour, the steamship ran its cutwater into the shark, striking the fish square amidships, so to speak. The shark was unable to extricate itself owing to the intense pressure of the

In a few moments the sharp stem had cut the flesh to the backbone, and this in turn breaking under the strain, the shark assumed the shape of an inverted V, hanging on either side of the bow like an old rope, the head and tail being still connected by the muscles of the back. Caught thus, the shark was towed along by the steamship for some 300 miles, and until the stop at quarantine, when, released from the pressure of the water, the body slowly sank.
